HOW TO TAKE CARE OF YOUR FOUNTAIN PEN

INK: Always use a good fountain pen ink, and always use the same kind. Do not mix inks in your pen, and never empty your pen into the bottle.

CLEANING: Clean your pen about every third filling. Use clear, warm (not hot) water. Put the point completely under water and open and close filling lever 4 or 5 times. Dry pen thoroughly before filling. Always clean your pen when you change the kind or color of ink.

FILLING: Keep your pen full of ink. Full pens write better than pens only partially filled. Full pens will not leak. When you fill your pen, put the point into the ink so that it is completely covered. Open and close the filling lever twice. After closing the lever the second time, keep the point in the ink for ten seconds. Always wipe surplus ink from the point and finger grip. Hold point up when you screw the cap on the barrel.

WHEN NOT IN USE: Always carry your pen with the point up. Keep it clipped in your pocket or purse. This keeps ink from seeping into the cap. Keep the cap on tight and give it an extra twist to make sure it's tight.

NEVER LEND YOUR PEN: After you have used your pen for a while, the pen becomes "set" to your way of writing. If you let different people use it, the point will become scratchy and will not write the way you would like it to write.

RENEW-POINT FOUNTAIN PEN

the right point for your kind of writing*

When you use "The right point for the way you write" in an Esterbrook fountain pen, you will know why Esterbrook is so widely recommended for student use.

Only Esterbrook offers a complete range of points designed for special school and business uses. There are points for bookkeeping and accounting; flexible or firm; cursive or manuscript writing; approved points for Gregg or Pitman Shorthand; clerical and manifold types. There is a style for every handwriting and every writing purpose.

Choose your favorite by number. Screw it into the barrel yourself, and you have truly a personal pen. And remember, if you ever damage the point of your Esterbrook, you can get a new point right away at the nearest fountain pen counter.
